DEFENSE INVESTIGATIVE SERVICE

V5-01

System name:

V5-01 Investigative Files System

System location:

Defense Investigative Service (DIS), Investigative Files Division, (D0840) P.O. Box 1211, Baltimore, MD 21203 has primary control over the system and is responsible for the maintenance of completed investigative records. The Special Investigations Center, 1000 Independence Ave. S.W., Washington, DC 20314 maintains limited categories of these records. DIS operational centers; District Offices; Field Offices; Resident Agencies and various DIS headquarters staff elements originate and have temporary control over portions of records.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Military personnel who are on active duty, applicants for enlistment or appointment and reservists and National Guardsmen; DoD civilian personnel who are paid from appropriated funds; industrial or contractor personnel who are working in private industry in firms which have contracts involving access to classified DoD information or installations; Red Cross personnel and personnel paid from nonappropriated funds who have DoD affiliation; ROTC cadets; former military personnel; individuals residing on, having authorized official access to, or conducting or operating any business or other functions at any DoD installation or facility.

Individuals not affiliated with the Department of Defense when, during the previous year, their activities have directly threatened the functions, property or personnel of the DoD or they have engaged in, or conspired to engage in, criminal acts on DoD installations or directed at the DoD.

Categories of records in the system:

Official Reports of Investigations (ROI's) prepared by DIS or other DoD, Federal, state or local official investigative activities

DIS Information Summary Reports (ISR's) which record unsolicited information received by DIS concerning a person or incident which is of direct interest to other DoD components or Federal agencies. (When such information is received by DIS it is reported as it was received, without investigation or confirmation, by ISR and transmitted to the interested activity.)

Attachments to ROI's or ISR's including exhibits, subject or interviewee statements, police records, medical records, fingerprint cards, credit bureau reports, employment records, education records, release statements, summaries of or extracts from other similar records or reports.

Case control and management documents which are not reports of investigation, but that serve as the basis for investigation, or serve to guide and facilitate investigative activity, including documents providing the data to open and conduct the case, such as the Personnel Security Investigation Request; documents, initiated by the subject such as personnel history documents, and fingerprint records; and documents used in case management and control, such as release statements, case transfer forms, and documents directing the inquiry.

DIS file administration and management documents accounting for the disclosure, control and access to a file, such as warning sheets, separators, forwarding correspondence and accounting records required by 5 U.S.C. 552 and 552a.

Cross references to chronological correspondence files disclosing unfavorable and administrative action taken based on DIS investigations.

Paragraph 10, Director of Central Intelligence Directive No. 1/14, Uniform Personnel Security Standards and Practices Governing Access to Sensitive Compartmented Information C.

Section II, DSA Regulation 5705.2, Criminal Investigative Support to the Defense Supply Agency.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

Purpose for which collected.

Personnel security investigative information is collected to insure that the acceptance or retention of persons to sensitive DoD positions, or granting individuals access to classified information, including those employed in defense industry, is clearly consistent with national security.

Criminal investigative information is collected on request to identify offenders, provide facts and evidence upon which to base prosecution and effect the recovery of property which has been wrongfully appropriated.

Information contained in ISR's (see description in RECORD-CATEGORY) regarding criminal, personnel security, counterintelligence, or intelligence matters, when received, is disseminated to appropriate Federal agencies or other DoD components.

Criminal and personnel security information is collected during reciprocal investigations conducted for other DoD and federal investigative elements (or in limited instances, criminal information for local, or state law enforcement agencies) for maintenance and use by the requesting activity.

Information regarding alleged security violations is collected on request to establish whether or not a compromise occured and to identify the personnel involved.

Criminal information received by DIS personnel in the course of their duties which is of direct interest to a local law enforcement agency and therefore furnished to that agency orally or by letter.

Users of DIS investigative information are:

(1) DIS personnel in the course of their official duties.

(2) Other accredited DOD investigative components, DOD agencies, elements of the Military Departments designated by the departments and representatives of the Secretary of Defense and the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

(3) Accredited Federal criminal and civil law enforcement and intelligence agencies.

(4) State and local official criminal law enforcement agencies.

(5) Other accredited federal agencies conducting investigations to evaluate suitability for employment or access to classified information.

(6) Congressional committees and the Government Accounting Office.

Specific uses of DIS investigative records are:

To determine the loyalty, suitability, eligibility, and general trustworthiness of individuals for access to Defense information and facilities by the first two categories of users, above.

To determine the eligibility and suitability of individuals for entry into and retention in the Armed Forces by the second category of users, above.

To provide information pertinent to the protection of persons under the provisions of 18 U.S.C. 3056, by the first three categories of users, above.

For use in criminal law enforcement investigations including statutory violations, counterintelligence, as well as counterespionage and other security matters by the first through fourth and the sixth categories of users, above.

In the event that records maintained in this system indicate a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

To provide information in judicial or adjudicative proceedings including litigation, or in accordance with a court order by the first three categories of users, above.

To make statistical evaluations of DIS investigative activities by the first, second and sixth categories of users, above.

To respond to Freedom of Information and Privacy Act access requests, by the first category of users, above.

To provide information in response to Inspector General, and EEO or other complaint investigations and Congressional inquiries by the first, second and sixth categories of users, above.

To determine the eligibility and suitability of an individual for personnel actions in the Armed Forces of the United States, as deemed appropriate by the second category of users, above.

A record such as identification data, from this system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to a federal, state local or foreign agency maintaining relevant information or to business enterprises to obtain employment records if necessary to obtain information relevant to an assigned investigation.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter by any agency of the first, second, third or fifth categories of users, above.

Transfers of information from this record system to other DoD components is a routine intra-agency use under the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a3(b)(1).

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Paper records in file folders, microfilm, magnetic tape or supplementary index cards.

Retrievability:

Investigations are centrally retrievable through the DIS Case Control System (DCCS) or the Defense Central Index of Investigations (DCII) systems described separately in this notice. Reciprocal investigations jurisdictions, may be retrieved only through a limited manual disclosure accounting system

Safeguards:

Completed investigative records are maintained and stored in primary responsiblity and certain ISR's and reciprocal investigations, and security or counterintelligence information which may be used in criminal prosecution. The withholding of this information will be to

By name and other identifying data.

Safeguards:

need to know basis. Other agencies of the Government to satisfy requests for routine reports.

Safeguards:

The file will be maintained in securable file cabinets

Safeguards:

Completed investigative records are maintained and stored in power files, open shelves and filing cabinets which are housed in secured areas accessible only to authorized personnel who are properly screened and have a need to know. Information contained on magnetic tape is secured in the same manner as the DCII, described separately. Recipients of investigative information are responsible for safeguarding information within the guidelines provided by DIS.

Retention and disposal:

Retention of closed DIS investigative files is authorized for 30 years maximum, except as follows: (1) Files which have resulted in adverse action against an individual will be retained permanently, (2) Files developed on persons who are being considered for affiliation with the Department of Defense will be destroyed within one year if the affiliation is not completed. In cases involving a pre-appointment investigation, if the appointment is not made due to information developed by investigation, the file will be retained permanently. If the appointment is not made for some other reasons not related to the investigation, the file will be destroyed within one year; (3) Information within the purview of the Department of Defense Directive 5200.27, 'Acquisition of Information Concerning Persons and Organizations Not Affiliated with the Department of Defense', is destroyed within 90 days after acquisition by DIS unless its retention is required by law or unless its retention has been specifically authorized by the Secretary of Defense or through the Chairman, DIRC.

Generally, ISR's and reciprocal investigations are retained for only 60 days.

Partial duplicate records of personnel security investigations are retained for 60 days by DIS field elements. Partial duplicate records in criminal and special investigations are retained for one year.

Employment Records of private business and industrial firms.
Educational and disciplinary records of schools, colleges, universities, technical and trade schools.
Hospital, clinic and other medical records.
Records of commercial enterprises such as real estate agencies, credit bureaus, loan companies, credit unions, banks and other financial institutions which maintain credit information on individuals, transportation companies, (airlines, railroad, etc.)
The interview of individuals who are thought to have knowledge of the subject's background and activities.
The interview of witnesses, victims and confidential sources.
The interview of any individuals deemed necessary to complete the DIS investigation.
Miscellaneous directories, rosters and correspondence.
Any other type of record deemed necessary to complete the DIS investigation.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act:

In accordance with subsection 3j(2) of the Act, information maintained by the Special Cases Division of DIS may be exempted from the provisions of subsections (c)(3) and (4); (d); (e)(1), (2) and (3); (e)(5) and (8); and (g). Information maintained by, or at the direction of, this unit includes criminal investigations for which the DIS has primary responsiblity and certain ISR's and reciprocal investigations, and security or counterintelligence information which may be used in criminal prosecution. The withholding of this information will be to allow the DIS Special Cases Division, a criminal law enforcement component, to conduct effective investigations into alleged unlawful activity or crime conductive situations without jeapordizing such investigations. Knowledge of the investigations of the Special Cases Division could enable subjects to take actions to prevent detection of criminal activities, conceal evidence, or to escape prosecution. It could also lead to intimidation of or harm to sources, informants, witnesses and their families. Information from this system will be withheld only to the extent that its release would interfere with such investigations.

Under subsection 3k(1) of the Act, properly classified material contained in DIS investigatory files is exempt from the provisions of subsection (d). This exemption will protect information, the disclosure of which would have an adverse effect on the national defense or foreign policy.

Under subsection 3k(2) of the Act, other investigatory material including certain reciprocal investigations and counterintelligence information is exempt from subsection (c) (3), (d), (e) (4) (G,H andI) and (f) until such time as action is taken regarding allegations, and after that time only to the extent that the information would identify a confidential source who furnished information under an express promise that the identity of the source would be held in confidence (or prior to the effective date of the Act under an implied promise). This exemption will permit the DIS to conduct certain law enforcement investigations effectively and to protect the identities of sources who would not otherwise provide information.

Protective Service: Under subsection 3k(3) of the Act, DIS investigatory material maintained in connection with assisting the US Secret Service (USSS) to provide protective services to the President of the United States or other individuals pursuant to section 3056 of Title 18 is exempt from subsections (c) (3), (d), (e) (1), (e) (4), (g, h and i), and (f). This exemption provision will enable DIS to continue its support of the US Secret Service without compromising the effectiveness of either activity.

Under subsection 3k(5) of the Act, personnel security investigatory material from subsections (c) (3), (d) and (f), is exempt to the extent that the disclosure of such material would reveal the identity of a confidential source as described above. This exemption provision will allow DIS to collect information from certain sources who would otherwise be unwilling to provide information necessary to personnel security investigations.

Office of the Secretary

PRIVACY ACT OF 1974

Systems of Records; Annual Publication

Pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(4), the Department of the Treasury republishes notices of the systems of records maintained by the Department. All of the systems have been previously published and adopted. There are no changes requiring public comment. Numerous minor changes have been made, consisting principally of address changes, revision of organizational titles, and corrections of grammatical or typographical errors.

Dated: September 1, 1978.

The Department has deleted 51 previously published systems of records.

William J. Beckham, Jr.,
Assistant Secretary (Administration).

The following 51 systems are deleted for the reasons shown.

Definitions:

"Consolidated"—Systems covering the same categories of individuals and records have been grouped together and identified as one system. The consolidation has no effect on the Department's ability to comply with the provisions of the Act.

"Destroyed (month and year)"—The records were destroyed during the month and year indicated.

"Duplicate of (system number)"—The system is a duplicate of or is included in, other systems cited.

"Entrepreneurial system"—Information maintained is about individuals operating in a business capacity as opposed to a personal capacity.

"Not Privacy Act system"—Information is not retrieved by name or other personal identifier.

"OBSOLETE"—No longer maintained in accordance with established retention and disposition schedules.

This notice covers all systems of records adopted up to the date of this publication (September 20, 1978).

Treasury/OS 001

System name: Administrative Personnel System.

System location: Main Treasury Building, Washington, DC 20220. Components of this record system are located at several buildings within the District of Columbia.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Employees, contractors, consultants. This system includes all individuals who at any time were retained for a position with the Office of the Secretary as an employee, consultant or contractor.

Categories of records in the system: Employment related administrative records. This system contains in house control type information about employees and certain contracters and consultants. The type of records found within this system are: list of individuals who are issued driver licenses, building passes, credit or identification cards, parking permits, accountable property and travel documents; lists of individuals who perform specialized duties (building wardens, relocation teams, safety officers, and civil defense officers); lists of consultants or contractors that have or are providing services, reports about individuals who are involved in accidents while associated with the Office of the Secretary.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301, 5 U.S.C. 5701-5809 and the Civil Service Personnel Manual.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: A record in this system may be disclosed a federal agency, in response to its request in connection with the letting of a contract, grant or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: File folders, magnetic tape, punch cards, microfilm lists and forms.

Retrievability: Records and retrieved primarily by name (filed alphabetically by category of records); secondary identifiers are used to assure accuracy (date of birth, social security number or employee identification number).

Safeguards: Records are stored in lockable cabinets or secure rooms; access is limited to officials who have a need for the information; employees are trained to make only authorized disclosures.

Retention and disposal: Personnel type records are retained for 30 days after termination. All other records are retained and destroyed in accordance with published disposition and retention schedules.

System manager(s) and address: Assistant Secretary (Administration), Room 3424, Main Treasury Building, Washington, DC 20220.

Notification procedure: Individuals wishing to be notified if they are named in this system of records, or gain access to records maintained in this system must submit a written request containing the following elements: (1) Identify the record system; (2) Identify the category and type of records sought; (3) Provide at least two items of secondary identification (date of birth, employee identification number, dates of employment or similar information).

Record access procedures: The Departmental Disclosure Office, Room 1314, 1500 Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20220.

Record source categories: The information in these records was provided by or verified by the subject of the record, employers, coworkers.

Treasury/OS 002

System name: Treasury Payroll/Personnel Information System—Treasury/OS.

System location: Main Treasury Building, Washington, DC 20220; Internal Revenue Service Data Center, Room 1100, Detroit, Michigan 48232; and U.S. Old Mint Data Center Division, 88 5th Street, San Francisco, California 94103.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Personnel and payroll data on all Treasury Department employees.

Categories of records in the system: Year-to-date and historical data on all Treasury Department employees.

Authority for maintenance of the system: The Civil Service Personnel Manual, 50 U.S.C. App 1705-1707, 31 U.S.C. and departmental circulars 145 and 830. The Department of the Treasury, Fiscal Requirements Manual, 5 U.S.C. 301.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The Treasury Payroll/Personnel Information System is used to furnish payroll and personnel data, information and statistics to the Civil Service Commission and other requesting agencies. It is also used to generate the necessary payroll information, deductions and allotments to pay the employees on a biweekly basis and to furnish the necessary payroll information to concerned agencies required by law. The basic payroll and personnel master file provides input to management information systems, as well as related accounting and budget systems.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: File folders, magnetic tape and reports. Disbursement records are stored at the Federal Records Center.

Retrievability: Records are retrieved primarily by name (filed alphabetically), secondary identifier are used to assure accuracy (date of birth, social security number, or employee identification number).

Retention and disposal: The Treasury Payroll/Personnel Information System master file is kept on disc and mag tape. Information concerning the employee is retrievable through the use of the individual's name and/or social security number. Information is reduced to hard copy in the form of reports and payroll information and documentation. Information is retained in automated form as long as the employee is active on the System. Reports are distributed to users and the master file is purged of inactive records on a yearly basis.

System manager(s) and address: Assistant Secretary (Administration), Room 3424, Main Treasury Building, Washington, DC 20220.

Notification procedure: Individuals wishing to be notified if they are named in this system or gain access to records maintained in this system must submit a request containing the following elements: (1) Identify the record system; (2) Identify the category and type of records sought, and (3) Provide at least two items of secondary identification (date of birth, employee identification number, dates of employment or similar information).

Record access procedures: Departmental Disclosure Officer, Room 1314, 1500 Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20220.

Contesting record procedures: Submit requests to the Departmental Disclosure Officer at the above address.

Treasury/OS 00.111

System name: FAC 1950 Census of Blocked Chinese Assets—Treasury/OS.

System location: 1331 G Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20220.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Most of these records contain reports and correspondence regarding blocked accounts of persons or firms who are nationals of the Peoples Republic of China. However, there is a small class of cases where reports were received regarding the assets of an individual subject to U.S. jurisdiction when such individual is the trustee of a Chinese national, Administrator or Executor of the estate of a Chinese national, heir of the estate of a Chinese national, etc. Most of the persons filing these reports were American corporations. However, a small number of reporters were American individuals.

The principal category is individuals residing in China who had an interest in property in the U.S. on December 18, 1950. This category would include (a) U.S. citizens who left China after December 17, 1950; and (b) non-U.S. citizens who left China after December 17, 1950, and became U.S. citizens or permanent alien residents of the U.S.

In addition, this system includes individuals in the U.S. who had acted for or on behalf of the government of the Peoples Republic of China, or individuals who had an interest in property in which there was also an interest of a Chinese national on or since December 17, 1950, for example, trusts and estates, joint accounts and partnerships.

Categories of records in the system: (6) Reports containing a brief description, including location and value, of assets in the U.S. on December 18, 1950, in which, China or a Chinese "national" (as defined in the Regulations) had any interest. (2) Correspondence regarding such reports. (3) A computer print-out summarizing the information contained in the reports.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Section 5(b) of the Trading with the Enemy Act (50 U.S.C. App., Section 5(b)). Section 500.603 of the Foreign Assets Control Regulations (31 CFR 500.603).

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The information in this system of records: (1) is used by staff to verify the accuracy of reports submitted under the 1970 Census of Blocked Chinese Assets; (2) is made available to the Chief of Enforcement, in connection with determining the present whereabouts of holders or custodians who cannot be located; (3) is made available to the Chief of Licensing for assistance in determining the propriety of the release of blocked property; (4) is made available to the Legal Section in connection with questions regarding the disposition of blocked property requiring a legal opinion; (5) is made available to the Acting Director in connection with questions regarding the property reported under the 1950 census; (6) is made available to the original holder or custodian of blocked Chinese property or his successor in interest to aid in preparation of the 1970 census report; (7) is made available to the legal representatives of persons listed in (1) to aid in preparation of the 1970 census report; (8) for additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Reports and correspondence files.

Retrievability: Reports are indexed by name of holder or custodian of blocked property, by name of individual for whom blocked accounts are maintained, and by report number. Files are indexed by name of holder or custodian of blocked property or by name of individual.

Safeguards: The FAC 1950 Census of Blocked Chinese Assets records consist of documents in folders and a computer print out. Some of these files are stored in file cabinets secured by approved detachable combination locks. The room where these records are stored is manned by FAC personnel who are instructed not to admit unauthorized persons, nor to release any material from these records to persons other than FAC personnel. During off duty hours this room is locked and safeguarded by appropriate security measures. The remainder of these files are stored in a supply room which is always locked except when in use by FAC personnel.

Retention and disposal: None have been destroyed.

System manager(s) and address: Office of Foreign Assets Control, U.S. Treasury Department, Washington, D.C. 20220.

Treasury/OS 00.113

System name: FAC 1964 Census of Blocked Cuban Assets—Treasury/OS

System location: Federal Record Center, Suitland, Maryland

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Most of these records contain reports and correspondence regarding blocked accounts of persons or firms who are nationals of Cuba. However, there is a small class of cases where reports were received regarding the assets of an individual subject to U.S. jurisdiction when such individual is the trustee of a Cuban national, Administrator or Executor of the estate of a Cuban national, heir of the estate of a Cuban national, etc. Most of the persons filing these reports were American corporations. However, a small number of reporters were American individuals.

The principal category is residents of Cuba, who had an interest in property in the U.S. on July 8, 1963. This category would also include (a) U.S. citizens who left Cuba after July 8, 1963, and (b) non-U.S. citizens who left Cuba after 1963 and became U.S. citizens or permanent alien residents of the U.S. In addition, this system includes individuals in the U.S. who had acted for or on behalf of the government of Cuba, or individuals who had an interest in property in which there was also an interest of a Cuban national on or since July 8, 1963, for example, trusts and estates, joint accounts and partnerships.

Categories of records in the system: (1) Reports containing a brief description, including location and value of assets in the U.S. on July 8, 1963, in which Cuba or a Cuban "national" (as defined in the Regulations) had any interest. (2) Correspondence regarding such reports. (3) A computer print out summarizing the information contained in the reports.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Section 5(b) of the Trading with the Enemy Act (50 USC, App., Section 5(b). Section 620(a) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 (22 USC Section 2370(a)). Cuban Assets Control Regulations 31 CFR Part 515.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The information in this system of records may be used in connection with a future census of blocked Cuban assets. The uses may be as follows: (1) by staff to determine persons to whom specific correspondence should be addressed advising them of the census requirements; (2) by staff to verify the accuracy of reports submitted under a new census; (3) by the Chief of Enforcement, in connection with determining the present where-abouts of holders or custodians who cannot be located; (4) by the Chief of Licensing for assistance in determining the propriety of the release of blocked property; (5) by the Legal Section in connection with questions regarding the disposition of blocked property requiring a legal opinion; (6) by the Director in connection with questions regarding the property reported under the 1964 census; (7) may be made available to the original holder or custodian of blocked Cuban property or his successor in interest to aid in preparation of a new census report; (8) may be available to the legal representatives of persons listed in (7) to aid in preparation of a new census report.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The purpose of this system is to provide personnel services to employees of the Bureau, former employees of the Bureau, and applicants for employment with the Bureau; to record personnel information as required by law and regulations; to prevent unauthorized disclosures; provide identification information in accident or medical emergency situations. When required or authorized by statute, regulations, or executive order, information in the record system is made available to members of the public, news media or other governmental agencies.

A record in this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a federal, state or local agency maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit.

A record in this system of records may be disclosed to a federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

A record in this system maybe disclosed to the following as a routine use: (1) The Department of Labor; (2) Congressmen; (3) Equal Employment Opportunity Commission; (4) Members of the public, employees of other governmental agencies, or members of the news media (on a case by case basis where determination that such disclosure would be in accordance with guidelines set forth under 28 C.F.R. Part 50.2; 5 U.S.C. 552 and 552a, and would not compromise enforcement of laws administered by Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms); (5) Officers and employees of Department of the Treasury who have a need for the record in the performance of their duties; (6) Federal, state and local law enforcement agencies; (7) Federal, state and local regulatory agencies. For additional routine uses, see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Active records stored in file folders in security filing cabinets. Inactive records stored in file folders at Federal Records Centers. Records also stored on magnetic tape at the IRS Data Center, Detroit, Michigan. Records are stored in on—line mass computer storage at San Diego, California (Treasury Enforcement Communications System).

Retrievability: Records are retrievable by name, date of birth, social security number, employee identification number, or a combination of any of these four.

Safeguards: Direct access restricted to personnel in Department of Treasury in the performance of their duty. Transmitted to routine users on a need to know basis or where a right to access is established, and to others upon verification of the substance and propriety of the request. Stored in lockable file cabinets in rooms locked during non—duty hours.

Retention and disposal: Records are retained in accordance with General Services Administration General Records Schedules numbers 1 through 20 and Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Records Control Schedules numbers 101 and 201 and disposed of by shredding, burning or by degaussing.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The purpose of this system is to determine suitability, eligibility or qualifications of individuals who are engaged or propose to engage in activities regulated by ATF; achieve compliance with laws under ATF's jurisdiction; assure full collection of revenue due from legal industries; eliminate commercial bribery, consumer deception and other improper trade practices in the distilled spirits, beer and wine industries; interact with Federal, state and local governmental agencies in the resolution of problems relating to industrial development, revenue protection, public health, ecology, and other areas of joint jurisdictional concern. When required or authorized by statute, regulation, or Executive Order, information in the record system is made available to members of the public or employees of other government agencies.

In the event that a record in this system indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, these records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether federal, state, local or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

A record in this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a federal, state or local agency maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit.

A record in this system of records may be disclosed to a federal agency, in responses to its request, in connection with the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter. When an ATF criminal investigation results in compilation of information contained in this system of records, the information shall be transferred to the Treasury ATF—Criminal Investigation Report System and shall become part of that system for all purposes of the Privacy Act of 1974. A record in this system may be disclosed as a routine use to: Officers and employees of the Department of the Treasury who have a need for the record in the performance of their duties; Federal, State or local regulatory or law enforcement agencies in the performance of their duties on a need to know basis; Members of the public, employees of other Governmental agencies, or members of the news media (on a case by case basis where determination that such disclosure would be in accordance with guidelines set forth under 28 C.F.R. Part 50.2; 5 U.S.C. 552 and 552a, and would not compromise enforcement of laws administered by Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms). For additional routine uses, see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Active records stored in file folders in filing cabinets; card forms in card filing cabinets; and on magnetic tapes or microfiche at IRS Service Centers, ATF Headquarters, or Department of the Treasury.

Retrievability: Records are retrievable by name, permit or license number, or by document locator number.

Safeguards: Direct access restricted to personnel in Department of Treasury in the performance of their duty. Transmitted to routine users on a need to know basis and others upon verification of the substance and propriety of the request. Stored in file cabinets in rooms locked during non—duty hours. Wagering records are maintained in safes or file cabinets which are locked at all times.

Retention and disposal: Records are retained in accordance with General Services Administration General Records Schedules numbers 1 through 20 and Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Records Control Schedules numbers 101 and 201 and disposed of by shredding, burning or by degaussing.

System manager(s) and address: Assistant Director, Regulatory Enforcement, Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, 1200 Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20226.

Notification procedure: The Director of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms has determined this system of records to be exempt from compliance with the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 522a (e) (4) (G).

Record access procedures: The Director of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms has determined this system of records to be exempt from compliance with the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 522a (e) (4) (H).

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The information in this system is used primarily by the Customs Patrol Officer who receives confidential information for the purpose of detecting and apprehending suspected violators of Customs and related laws, and for the purpose of processing the payment of rewards for information received. Disclosure may be made only in extremely rare and unusual situations when demands of law or justice require that information be supplied to such organizations as Federal, state and/or other agencies.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: All files and indices relating to cooperating individuals are stored in metal file cabinets secured with combination locks in a government secured building.

Retrievability: The name of each cooperating individual is filed in alphabetical order by assumed name and by actual name. The indices are maintained in the same alphabetical order and are also cross-referenced by the Patrol Division alpha numeric code number. All other indentifying data is used for verification of identity rather than method of retrieval.

Safeguards: In addition to being stored in secure metal cabinets with government approved locks, the metal files are kept locked when not in use and located in a closely watched room of the Patrol Division. Personnel maintaining the files are selected for their reliability among other qualities, and they are afforded access only after having been cleared by a full field investigation. The files are given the same treatment as material classified as Secret. During duty hours, Patrol Division personnel maintain visual control and during off-duty hours the area containing the files is locked.

Retention and disposal: Indefinite retention periods have been established for almost all records contained in the file. When a file no longer has any utility, it is destroyed by either shredding or burning.

System manager(s) and address: The Regional Patrol Director in Regional Customs Patrol Offices; the District Patrol Director in District Patrol Offices; and the Supervisory Customs Patrol Officer in suboffices of District Customs Patrol. See Customs Appendix A.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Commissioner of Customs pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and/or (k) has proposed to exempt this system of records from certain requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a. The provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a from which this system of records is proposed to be exempted and the justification for the exemption are contained in a general notice which appears elsewhere in the Federal Register.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Each case file is inserted in an alphabetical file folder which is filed in an unlocked drawer within a metal container.

Retrievability: Each case file is identified in a manual alphabetical card file by the name of the customhouse broker and in the alphabetical file folder within the metal container by the name of the customhouse broker.

Safeguards: The metal container described above is maintained within the area assigned to the Office of the Chief Counsel within the Customs Service Building. During non-working hours the room in which the metal container is located is locked, and access to the building is controlled at all times by uniformed guards.

Retention and disposal: Customhouse broker files are retained indefinitely or until there is no longer any space available for them within the metal container, at which time the oldest files are transferred to the Federal Record Center.

System manager(s) and address: Chief Counsel, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229.

Notification procedure: See Customs Appendix A.

Record source categories: The information contained in these files originates from audits of or investigations into the conduct of customhouse brokers' businesses which include review of customhouse brokers' business records and interviews of Customs Service personnel, private parties, customhouse brokers and employees of customhouse brokers. The audits or investigations result in recommendations from appropriate Customs Service field personnel regarding possible disciplinary action against customhouse brokers which in turn result in the information contained in these files which consists of evaluations of the recommendations and the proposed disposition of the cases.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Commissioner of Customs pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and/or (k) has proposed to exempt this system of records from certain requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a. The provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a from which this system of records is proposed to be exempted and the justification for the exemption is contained in a general notice which appears elsewhere in the Federal Register.

Treasury/Customs 00.070

System name: Customhouse Brokers, Headquarters Records—Treasury/Customs.

System location: Entry and Licensing Branch, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Citizens of the United States, 21 years of age or older, who have been granted individual customhouse brokers' license for specific U.S. Customs Districts and such individuals who have applied for an individual broker's license which has been denied for cause other than failure to pass the qualifying individual customhouse brokers' license examination.

Categories of records in the system: The records system contains executed individual customhouse brokers' license application forms, report of investigation concerning individual broker applicants, transmittal letters, and general correspondence corrobative of information disclosed in an individual's license application or report of investigation as to the applicant's character and business integrity. The records system also contains information relating to actual or proposed disciplinary action against licensed customhouse brokers.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 19 U.S.C. 1641, 19 CFR Part 111; 5 U.S.C. 301; Treasury Department Order No. 165, Revised, as amended.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The routine uses of the records contained in this system of records are as follows: (a) Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service and the Department of the Treasury who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties; (b) Disclosures required in administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552); (c) In the event that this system of records includes information which indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, state, local, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation, or order issued pursuant thereto. (d) Processing of individual applications for individual customhouse brokers' licenses; processing of corporation, partnership, and association brokers' licenses; approval of use of trade or fictitious brokers' names; maintenance of centralized files on licensed customhouse brokers for verification and updating of names, addresses, place of employment, district where licensed, and compliance with regulatory requirements of duties and obligations of customhouse brokers; determinations that each corporate, association, or partnership licensed as a broker have not less than two officers or members licensed as individual brokers; and the availability of file information to verify licensing of customhouse brokers and to provide data or information upon request to the Federal Maritime Commission, the Civil Aeronautics Board, an appropriate U.S. Attorney's office, or other Federal agency.

(f) Information contained in this file is used by the attorneys in the Regional Counsel's office in determining whether to recommend granting or denial of the request made pursuant to the Freedom of Information Act. Litigation regarding the Freedom of information request will require disclosure of the information to the Department of Justice and the appellate level before this step would require information to be disclosed to the Department of the Treasury. Information disclosed to the Department of Justice is often routed through the Department of the Treasury.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Each case file is inserted in a file folder which is filed in a lockable drawer within a metal filing cabinet.

Retrievability: Each case file is identified in a manual alphabetical card file by the name of the person who initiated the Freedom of Information Act request. In addition, each case file is similarly identified on the file folder with the alphabetical name on the file which is placed and located within the metal container.

Safeguards: The metal filing drawer containing the files described above is maintained within the area assigned to the Office of the Regional Counsel, Region IX at 55 E. Monroe Street, Chicago, Illinois. During non-working hours, the room in which the metal filing drawer is located is locked, the file container itself is locked, and access to the building is controlled at all times by uniformed guards with a check-in system for employees. Only employees of the Regional Counsel's office and authorized building personnel have keys to the building.

Retention and disposal: These files are retained indefinitely or until there is no longer space available for them within the metal filing cabinet at which time the oldest files are transferred to the storage area within the confines of the office. The storage area is a large area containing cardboard boxes and metal storage cabinets which are not able to be locked. Files which are closed and not retained for precedent purposes are retired to the Federal Records Center, General Service Administration, 7358 S. Pulaski, Chicago, Illinois 60602, in accordance with the U.S. Customs Service Records Disposal Manual.

System manager(s) and address: Regional Counsel of Customs, Room 1417, United States Customs Service, 55 E. Monroe Street, Chicago, Illinois 60603.

Notification procedure: See Customs Appendix A.

Record source categories: The information in these files can originate from the U.S. Customs Service, any of the agencies of the Treasury Department, or any agency of the Government if the record sought and ultimately placed within the file is within the possession and/or control of the U.S. Customs Service, Region IX. However, the only information placed within these files is that information being sought by the individual making the request and the information supplied by the requester. Contesting record procedures: See Access, Customs Appendix A.

Record source categories: Customs Form 5955a (Notice of Penalty or Liquidated Damages Incurred and Demand for Payment) and CF 151 (Search/Arrest/Seizure Report) prepared by Customs Employees at the time and place where the violation has occurred.

Treasury/Customs 00.097

System name: Fines, Penalties, and Forfeitures (Supplemental Petitions)—Treasury/Customs.

System location: Office of the Regional Counsel, Room 7422, New Federal Building, 300 N. Los Angeles St., Los Angeles, California 90053.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Any person requesting further relief from the Regional Commissioner after having his Petition acted on by the District Director from any fine, penalty, forfeiture or claim for liquidated damages incurred under the provisions of any law administered by the Customs Service.

Categories of records in the system: Case file including copies of the notice of penalty, seizure or claim for liquidated damages, search, arrest and seizure forms, investigative reports, documents relating to any importation having to do with the penalty, forfeiture or claim, documents relating to the administrative handling of the case and documents submitted by the Petitioner in support of his Petition and Supplemental Petition.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301; Treasury Department Order No. 165, Revised, as amended.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The information contained in this file is used to administratively process Supplemental Petitions for relief from any fine, penalty, forfeiture or claim for liquidated damages incurred under the provisions of any law administered by Customs. The information is made available to the officials within the Customs Service who review recommendations and who make final decisions on such petitions. In addition, information contained in this file is made available to the Department of Justice to assist that Department in preparing the government case if the case is referred to them for filing of a suit based on an administrative denial of the Petition or removal to the District Court by action on the part of the Petitioner under the provisions of section 1608 of title 19. Information in these files may also be made available to persons working for the governmental agencies who are empowered to review and make recommendations concerning the granting of relief for violations of law administered by such agencies but enforced by Customs.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Each case file is inserted in an alphabetical file folder which is filed in an unlocked drawer within a metal container.

Retrievability: Each case file is labeled with the name of the person who filed the claim and filed in alphabetical order in the metal file cabinet marked Supplemental Petitions. In addition a chronological record is kept in a separate book, kept by the office secretary, of each case received, with district case number, decision, name of the Petitioner, law violated and ultimate decision of the Regional Commissioner.

Safeguards: The metal container described above is maintained within the area assigned to the Office of the Regional Counsel within the New Federal Building. During non-working hours the room in which the metal container is located is locked, and access to the building is controlled at all times by uniformed guards.

Retention and disposal: Indefinite.

System manager(s) and address: Regional Counsel, Room 7422, United States Customs Service, 300 N. Los Angeles St., Los Angeles, California 90053.

Notification procedure: See Customs Appendix A.

Record source categories: The information contained in these files originates with the filing of a Supplemental Petition as prescribed by section 171.33 and 172.33 of the Customs Regulations with the District Director of the District in which the fine, penalty, forfeiture or claim for liquidated damages issued. The Petition along with all supporting documents or documents relating to the case are forwarded to the office of the Regional Commissioner who refers the case to the office of the Regional Counsel for review and recommendation. During this period of review further information may be elicited from Customs Service employees, private persons, or any other parties who may have information regarding the facts surrounding the case.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Commissioner of Customs pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and/or (k) has proposed to exempt this system of records from certain requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a. The provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a from which this system of records is proposed to be exempted and the justification for the exemption is contained in a general notice which appears elsewhere in the Federal Register.

Categories of records in the system: Statement from individual explaining circumstances justifying relief sought and history of the fine, penalty, forfeiture or seizure involved.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301; Treasury Department Order No. 165, Revised, as amended; 19 CFR part 171 and 172.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The routine uses of the records contained in this system of records are as follows: (a) Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service, the Department of the Treasury and the Department of Justice, who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties; (b) Disclosures required in administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552); (c) In the event that this system of records includes information which indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, state, local, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation, or order issued pursuant thereto. (d) A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a Federal, state, or local agency maintaining civil, criminal, or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit. (e) A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter. (f) Information contained in these files is routinely used by the attorneys in the Regional Counsel's office in determining and resolving legal issues, in denying or granting the petition and possibly in litigation. Litigation will require disclosure of the information to the Department of Justice, and the information is often channeled through the Department of Treasury.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Each case file is inserted in a file folder which is filed in a lockable drawer within a metal filing cabinet container.

Retrievability: Each case file is identified in a manual alphabetical card file by the name of the person who initiated the petition for relief. In addition, each case file is similarly identified on the file folder with the alphabetical name on the file which is placed and located within the metal container.

Safeguards: The metal filing drawer containing the files described above is maintained within the area assigned to the office of the Regional Counsel, Region IX, at 55 E. Monroe Street, Chicago, Illinois. During non-working hours, the room in which the metal filing drawer is located is locked, the file container itself is locked, and access to the building is controlled at all times by uniformed guards with a check-in system for employees. Only employees of the Regional Counsel's office and authorized building personnel have keys to the building.

Retention and disposal: These files are retained indefinitely or until there is no longer space available for them within the metal filing cabinet at which time the oldest files are transferred to the storage area within the confines of the office. The storage area is a large area containing cardboard boxes with metal storage cabinets which are not able to be locked. Files which are closed and not retained for precedent purposes are retired to the Federal Records Center, General Services Administration, 7358 S. Pulaski, Chicago, Illinois 60602 in accordance with the U.S. Customs Service Records Disposal Manual.

Treasury/Customs 00.127

System name: Internal Security Records System—Treasury/Customs.

System location: Internal Security Division, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229. Tort Claim Investigation Files and index card files at each Regional Director (Internal Affairs) Office. See Customs Appendix A.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Present and past employees, applicants for positions that require an investigation, and others that are the subject of an investigation.

Categories of records in the system: Security clearance records; background, tort claim, special inquiry, conduct, and equal employment opportunity investigations and other Customs related investigations including individuals involved in accidents under investigation.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301; Treasury Department Order No. 165, Revised, as amended.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The routine uses of the records contained in this system of records are as follows: (a) Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service and the Department of the Treasury who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties; (b) Disclosure required in the administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552); (c) Provide the proper authority within the Department of the Treasury with sufficient information to make a decision as to whether or not an applicant or employee is suitable for employment in a sensitive position, and to make a determination regarding a subject's loyalty; (d) When routine background investigation develops evidence of violations of law, case is referred to Investigative Branch; (e) Serves as a basis for granting access to classified information and material. When necessary, advise Government agencies and private industry of employees having security clearances; (f) To provide basis for disciplinary action, criminal prosecution establishing guilt or innocence, identifying procedural weaknesses, establishing liability in tort claim investigations, give information to Equal Employment Opportunity Division in EEO cases, provide information to appropriate officials, management and Congressmen; (g) In the event that this system of records includes information which indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, state, local or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto; (h) A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a Federal, state or local agency maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit; (i) A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

A record contained in this system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to possible sources of information in connection with civil or criminal investigations or inquiries under circumstances where it is necessary to disclose certain information in order to pose a question to those sources.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Investigative records are maintained on microfiche and in file folders and stored in metal security cabinets secured by government approved three-position, combination locks. Security clearance records are stored on magnetic tape with a manual back-up system.

Retrievability: A manual, master card index is maintained for the entire system. This index includes name and/or numerical identifier.

Safeguards: In addition to being stored in secure metal containers with government approved, combination locks, the metal containers are located in locked rooms, the keys of which are controlled and issued to the custodians of the files. The security specialists and administrative personnel who maintain the files are selected for their experience and afforded access only after having been cleared by a full-field background investigation and granted appropriate security clearances for critical sensitive positions. Those departmental officials who may occasionally be granted access consistent with their positions to employ and concur in the granting of security clearances have also been investigated prior to filling critical-sensitive positions.

Retention and disposal: With exception of tort claim investigations, the file records are maintained as long as the subject of the investigation is employed by the U.S. Customs Service and for 1 year after the subject terminates employment. The files are then transferred to the Federal Records Center.

Tort Claim investigations are retained for 5 years after the close of the investigation and then destroyed. Once files are transferred, they are retained for the following periods of time by the Federal Records Center and then destroyed: Background investigations—25 years, Conduct and special inquiry investigations—15 years, Equal Employment Opportunity investigations—10 years.

System manager(s) and address: Director, Internal Security Division, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The routine uses of the records contained in this system of records are as follows: (a) Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service and the Department of Treasury who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties which may include the administration, investigation, enforcement and prosecution of civil and criminal Customs and related laws; (b) Disclosures required in administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552); (c) Disclosure may be made to any civil or criminal law enforcement authorities, whether Federal, state, local or foreign; (d) In the event that this system of records includes information which indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, state, local, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigation or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation, or order issued pursuant thereto; (e) A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a Federal, state, or local agency maintaining civil, criminal, or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit; (f) A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

A record contained in this system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to possible sources of information in connection with civil or criminal investigations or inquiries under circumstances where it is necessary to disclose certain information in order to pose a question to those sources.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Records are maintained in both hard copy files and on microfiche which are placed in locked metal containers.

Retrievability: The record system is indexed on 3 x 5 file cards by the individual's name and/or identification number and by the investigative case numbers to which the information relates. The hard copy and microfiche records are retrieved by means of the investigative case numbers.

Safeguards: All records are held in steel cabinets and are maintained according to the requirements of the United States Customs Records Manual and the United States Customs Security Manual. Access is limited by visual controls and/or a lock system. During normal working hours, files are either attended by responsible Office of Investigations employees or the file area is restricted. The office in which the records are located is locked during non-working hours and the building is patrolled by uniformed security guards.

Retention and disposal: The index cards are retained indefinitely. The hard copy and microfiche records are retained for one year or more depending on the subject matter to which they relate and are then either destroyed or transferred to the appropriate Federal Record Center, all in accordance with standard Customs Service record retention and disposal procedures.

System manager(s) and address: Assistant Commissioner, Office of Investigations, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C., 20229.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Commissioner of Customs pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and/or (k) has proposed to exempt this system of records from certain requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a. The provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a from which this system of records is proposed to be exempted and the justification for the exemption are contained in a general notice which appears elsewhere in the Federal Register.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Customs employees who are suspected of misconduct.

Categories of records in the system: A written or telephonic notification made by the Office of Internal Affairs that an investigation has been opened on an individual employee.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301; Treasury Department Order No. 165, Revised, as amended.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Notification serves to notify certain Personnel Management Division employees of the investigation to assure compliance with Chapter 751 of the Customs Personnel Manual which precludes the processing of certain personnel actions while employees are under investigation. Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service and the Department of the Treasury who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties. Disclosures required in administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552).

In the event that this system of records includes information which indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, state, local or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute or rule, regulation, or order issued pursuant thereto.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a Federal, state, or local agency maintaining civil, criminal, or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Notifications provided by the Office of Internal Affairs are maintained in a file folder and stored in a metal security cabinet equipped with a lock.

Retrievability: The file contains the name of the employee; therefore retrievability is by the individual's name.

Safeguards: A metal container, described above, is maintained within the area assigned to Personnel Management in the One Allen Center Building. During non-working hours, the room in which the metal container is kept is locked, and access to the building is controlled at all times by uniformed guards.

Retention and disposal: The name file is retained until notification has been received that the investigation has been cancelled or on receipt of a report of investigation from the Office of Internal Affairs.

System manager(s) and address: Director, Personnel Management Division, 500 Dallas Street, Houston, Texas 77002.

Record source categories: The only source of notification that an employee has been placed under investigation is the Regional Director, Internal Affairs.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Commissioner of Customs pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and/or (k) has proposed to exempt this system of records from certain requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a. The provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a from which this system of records is proposed to be exempted and the justification for the exemption is contained in a general notice which appears elsewhere in the Federal Register.

Record source categories: The information to pursue requests for reclassification are obtained from concerned employees, supervisors, and knowledgeable managerial officials. Other information is obtained from appropriate Civil Service classification publications.

Treasury/Customs 00.206

System name: Regulatory Audits of Customhouse Brokers—Treasury/Customs.

System location: Division of Regulatory Audit, United States Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, NW., Washington, D.C. 20229, and at each of the nine regional offices of Regulatory Audit (see Customs Appendix A for addresses).

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Persons licensed to conduct customhouse brokerage business pursuant to 19 U.S.C. 1641.

Categories of records in the system: Audit reports of customhouse broker accounts and records; correspondence regarding such reports; Congressional inquiries concerning customhouse broker and disposition made of such inquiries; names of officers of customhouse brokerage firms, license numbers and dates issued and district covered.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 19 U.S.C. 1641; 19 CFR Part III. 5 U.S.C. 301; Treasury Department Order No. 165, Revised, as amended.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The routine uses of the records contained in this system of records are as follows: (a) Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service and the Department of the Treasury who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties; (b) Disclosures required in the administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552). (c) The information may be furnished to other government agencies which may have an interest in the broker. (d) Copies of broker audit reports will be retained in the office that performed the audit and at the headquarter's office. These reports will serve as a permanent file providing such essential information as the names and broker license number of company officers and other licensed employees. The reports will create a historical record of broker performance. The headquarter's file will also provide a means of evaluating the effectiveness of audits conducted by the regional audit staffs.

For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Each customhouse broker file is inserted in alphabetical order by name of the firm in one of nine regional file folders which are filed in an unlocked drawer within a metal file cabinet. Duplicate copies are maintained at Customs Service Headquarters.

Retrievability: Each broker file is identified on alphabetical file locator cards which contain the name and address of the broker, the region and district in which he operates, and the number of the file drawer. In addition each regional office maintains their own alphabetical file, containing the above information, for broker activities within their region.

Safeguards: The files described above are maintained within the area assigned to the Regulatory Audit Division within the Customs Service Building. During non-working hours, the room in which the files are located is locked, and access to the building is controlled at all times by uniformed guards.

Retention and disposal: Customhouse broker files are retained indefinitely, or until there is no longer any space available for them at which time the oldest files are destroyed by burning or shredding.

System manager(s) and address: Director, Regulatory Audit Division, United States Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, NW., Washington, D.C. 20229. Regional Director, Regulatory Audit Division at each of the nine regional offices (see Customs Appendix A for addresses).

Notification procedure: See Customs Appendix A.

Record source categories: The information contained in these files originates from audits conducted by the regional Regulatory Audit staff, of customhouse brokers' businesses. The audits may be supplemented with information furnished by the Office of the Chief Counsel, Office of Investigations, and the Office of Regulations and Rulings. These audits include examinations of brokers business records, including all financial books of accounts, check books, and financial statements. In the event that the broker is engaged in various business enterprises such as freight forwarding and insurance, and these financial records are commingled with those financial records relating to the brokerage business, it would be necessary to examine the other business records to complete the audit.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act: The Commissioner of Customs pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (j) and/or (k) has proposed to exempt this system of records from certain requirements of 5 U.S.C. 552a. The provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a from which this system of records is proposed to be exempted and the justification for the exemption is contained in a general notice which appears elsewhere in the Federal Register.

Treasury/Customs 00.244

System name: Treasury Enforcement Communications System (TECS)—Treasury/Customs

System location: Office of Enforcement Support, U.S. Customs Service, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: (1) Violators or suspected violators of U.S. Customs or related laws (some of whom have been apprehended by Customs officers); (2) Individuals who are suspected of, or who have been arrested for, thefts from international commerce; (3) Convicted violators of U.S. Customs and/or drug laws in the United States and foreign countries; (4) Fugitives with outstanding warrants-Federal or state; (5) Victims of U.S. Customs law violations; (6) Masters associated, in the capacity of ship agent or representative, with vessels in actual or suspected violation of U.S. Customs and related laws.

Categories of records in the system: Every possible type of information which contributes to effective law enforcement may be maintained in this system of records. Records include but are not limited to records pertaining to known violators, wanted persons, lookouts (temporary and permanent), and document reference records, vessel names and search results. Information about individuals includes but is not limited to name, alias, date of birth, address, physical description, various identification numbers (i.e., seizure number), details and circumstances of a search, arrest, or seizure, case information such as merchandise and values, methods of theft, etc.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 U.S.C. 301; Treasury Department Order No. 165, Revised, as amended.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: (a) Disclosure to those officers and employees of the Customs Service and the Department of the Treasury who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties; (b) Disclosures required in administration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552); (c) As a law enforcement tool, for example, to aid in the detection and prevention of violations, to provide and disseminate information on suspected or known violators within system to Federal, state and local enforcement officers within the United States and to other cooperating foreign countries' enforcement officers and officials. Also used by the Department of Justice in prosecuting court cases. (d) To determine violation trends and develop enforcement techniques and lookout information for use in the enforcement of Customs and related laws. (e) To provide management information such as the number of types of seizures, arrests, and searches associated with arrests or seizures. (f) Used by Customs to identify high theft areas, types of cargo most likely to be pilfered or stolen, to connect seemingly unrelated Customs theft cases and to provide management information such as the value and volume of theft from international shipping. (g) Documentation of vessel violations committed while in United States ports. (h) Determination of search operations by consideration of past violations and selective intelligence information. (i) In support of other regulatory and/or enforcement agencies, particularly the Department of Agriculture, by assisting in the quarantine control of infested vessels, and of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, by assisting in collection of payments attendant to the handling of aliens.

For additional routine uses, see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Magnetic disc and tape, microfiche, and hard copy (i.e. Customs Form 153).

Retrievability: By name (individual or master, owner, or agent name when concerning vessel violation profile); unique identifiers, identification numbers (i.e., personal, seizure number, system identification number); cargo location code or vessel name.

Safeguards: (1) All officers making inquiries have had a full field background investigation and are given information on a "need to know" basis only. (3) Procedural and physical safeguards are utilized such as accountability and receipt records, guards patrolling the area, restricted access and alarm protection systems, special communications security, etc.

Retention and disposal: Review is accomplished by Customs officers each time a record is retrieved and on periodic basis to see if it should be retained or modified. Since both temporary and permanent records are maintained, period of retention will vary with type record entered. A complete review of each record in system is made annually at Headquarters. (4) The records are disposed of by erasure of magnetic tape or disc, and by shredding and/or burning of hard copy documents.

Treasury Customs 00.278

System name: Early Implementation System (EIS)—Treasury/Customs.

System location: The Computer is located at 1900 West Park Drive, McLean, Virginia 23701. Computer terminals are located at Customhouses and ports throughout the United States and at U.S. Customs Headquarters, Washington D.C. (For addresses of Customhouses see Customs Appendix A.)

Categories of individuals covered by the system: U.S. Customs Service employees and individuals involved in the import trade.

Categories of records in the system: The system data base is comprised of commodity and merchandise processing information relating to Customs administration of trade laws. Certain portions contain no information about individuals. These are the Tariff Schedules of the United States Annotated (TSUSA) file, country file, criteria file for the selection of routine items, Team TSUSA file, district port file, and the entry master file. The following system files may contain information about U.S. Customs Services employees and/or individuals/companies involved in the import trade.

(1) Authorized Terminals Users File: Contains Randomly established five-digit identification codes and passwords assigned to Customs Service employees authorized to use the system. The file consists of the names and identification of all Customs Service employees using the remote terminals to input information into the system. It does not contain Social Security numbers. The degree of access to the system varies according to the users responsibilities in the system.

(2) Importer/Broker/Consignee Bond File: Records consist of importer of record number, importer name, type of importation bond, expiration date, and surety code. The importer of record number is used as the method of accessing the file. The number is assigned by any one of three code formats according to availability and the following hierarchy. The first choice is the IRS employer Identification number (EIN). The vast majority of importers have the EIN because of the business necessity of it.

The second alternative is the Social Security number (SSN). The third alternative is a Customs-assigned number. This file is referenced during entry processing to verify that the individual or company making entry is authorized to import and is properly bonded.

(3) Broker File: A record consists of a three-digit Customs-assigned Customhouse broker number (non-SSN) and the broker name. The writing and directed to the Director, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, Office of Regulations and Rulings, U.S. Customs Service

Regional Director (Internal Affairs), P.O. Box 3201, Miami, Florida 33101.

VIII San Francisco, California 94111/555 Battery St. (415)556-4340.

IV San Juan, Puerto Rico 00903/(P.O. Box 2112) (809)723-2091.

(3) Broker File: A record consists of a three-digit Customs-assigned Customhouse broker number (non-SSN) and the broker name. The file is referenced during entry processing to validate the broker number and to prepare and distribute the Broker ID Performance Report to the individual or company concerned. The subject of the report is compliance with the entry filing requirements under the immediate delivery program. Information is disclosed only to the party-of-record.

(4) Surety File: A record consists of a three-digit surety code (non-SSN) assigned by the Customs Accounting Division and the surety name. The file is referenced during entry processing to validate these surety codes. No information on surety company affairs is collected or disseminated in the system.

(5) Liquidator File: A record consists of a Customs-assigned three-digit liquidator identification (non-SSN) and a Customs employee's name. The employee's liquidator code is input into the system as a means of maintaining quality control and an audit trail on entries liquidated.

(6) Manufacturer File: The file contains only a three-digit manufacturer code number (non-SSN) and manufacturer name.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 19 U.S.C. 66, 1448, 1481, 1483, 1484, 1505, and 1624.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: The routine uses of the records contained in this system of records are as follows: (a) Disclosure of those officers and employees of the Customs Service and the Department of the Treasury who have a need for the records in the performance of their duties; (b) Disclosures required in adminstration of the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552); (c) To provide the Bureau of the Census with a magnetic tape containing foreign trade data.

For additional routine use see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Magnetic Disc.

Retrievability: By identification codes and/or name.

Safeguards: Access to computer area is controlled by a security pass arrangement and personnel not connected with the operation of the computer are prohibited from entering. The building security is protected by a uniformed guard. At the ports of processing, terminal rooms are under close supervision during working hours and locked after close of business. The system security officer issues a unique private five digit identification code to each authorized user. The codes are changed periodically to enhance security. All computer terminals are key-locked when not in use. Access to the Customers computer from other than system terminals in prohibited by hardware controls. Users must input a unique identification code during the terminal log-in procedure to gain access to the system. The identification code is not printed or displayed at the port of processing. The system validates the user ID by transaction type, thereby limiting a system user's access to information on a need to know basis. A listing of identification codes of authorized users can be printed only at the computer room site by request of the security officer.

Retention and disposal: Files are retained indefinitely but are periodically updated to reflect changes, etc.

System manager(s) and address: Director, AMPS Program Division Customs Service Headquaters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229, is responsible for all data maintained in the files.

Notification procedure: See Customs Appendix A.

Record access procedures: See Customs Appendix A.

Contesting record procedures: See Access, Customs Appendix A.

Record source categories: The system data base is limited to data about individuals and/or companies incidental to the conduct of foreign trade and required by the Customs Service in adminstering the tariff laws and regulations of the United States. No information concerning any individual's or company's importation activity, bonds status, and compliance or noncompliance with Customs Regulations will be disclosed for non-authorized purposes to any person other than the party-of-record upon receipt of a written request.

UNITED STATES CUSTOMS SERVICE

APPENDIX A

Notification procedure: Requests by an individual to be notified if the system of records contains records pertaining to him shall be in writing and directed to the Director, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, Office of Regulations and Rulings, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W. Washington, D.C. 20229 or to the Regional Commissioner of the region in which the records are located (See Appendix A). The requester will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Record access procedures: Requests by an individual to be notified how he can gain access to a record pertaining to him contained in a system of records, and how he can contest its content shall be in writing and directed to the Director, Entry Procedures and Penalties Division, U.S. Customs Service Headquarters, 1301 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20229 or to the Regional Commissioner of the region in which the records are located (See Appendix A). The requester will be notified in writing of the procedures to be followed. Where the request is presented in person, the requester shall present adequate identification to establish his identity, and a comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

If an individual can provide no suitable documents for identification, he may be required to make a signed statement asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars.

Where the request is not presented in person, it shall be accompanied by a notarized statement executed by the requester asserting identity and stipulating that he understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine up to 5,000 dollars. A comparison of his signature and those in the records may be made where the records contain the necessary signature.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Title 5 USC; Federal Personnel Manual; Executive Order 11478.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Within the Department of the Treasury, the aforementioned records are routinely used to determine the suitability of an applicant for employment; to verify an employee's orientation processing; to supplement official personnel records for clarification of personnel actions; to authorize deductions of state and/or local or District of Columbia taxes from an employee's salary for payroll functions; to provide information for determining the eligibility and suitability of an employee for promotion or award; to appraise an employee's performance following hiring or promotion; to judge the necessity for disciplinary action and to make record of the same; to inform an employee of his present leave and retirement benefits status; to make record of all correspondence exchanged between an employee and the Division of Personnel for reference purposes; to locate an employee in an emergency situation if the employee's permission was granted; to issue building passes and make record thereof; to record work-related injuries and illnesses and to process compensation therefor; to perform security investigations and to provide security clearance for attorneys and certain other employees in order to protect security information; to furnish Internal Revenue Service, Secret Service, and other Federal agencies with information in the course of their investigations; to document grievances or complaints of discrimination for purposes of hearing and passing decision on a case; to furnish management with information necessary for the hearing and resolution of administrative grievances and grievances arising within the framework of the labor-management framework; to record, analyze and approve travel expenditures; to furnish data needed by the Division of Budget and Accounts in the performance of its duties relating to the estimating and accounting for budget expenditures, maintaining records, providing payroll data to the Fiscal Service Payroll Facility, Bureau of Government Financial Operations, to the individual employee, and to supervisors who have need of such information in the performance of their duties; to maintain records of correspondence for reference and precedence purposes; to provide Federal income tax filing information on employees, GS grade 12 and above, for the purpose of tax checks; to process and document merit promotion actions; to conduct turnover studies; and to maintain records of those employees who have requested voluntary withholding of union dues.

Routine users of records within the Department are the Division of Personnel; the Division of Budget and Accounts; the Division of Management Services; the EEO Officers; Internal Revenue Service; Secret Service; and all other employees who have need of such information in the performance of their authorized duties.

Outside the Department of the Treasury, qualified information is routinely used to furnish other Federal Agencies with pre-employment information for hiring purposes; to verify debt complaints and employment data upon request by creditors; to respond to requests for information by Federal investigative agencies for the purpose of security or criminal investigation, and civil or criminal judicial proceedings; to provide data to the Civil Service Commission and other Federal agencies upon authorized requests; to supply data necessary for employee compensation; to provide union representatives, arbitrators, and other third parties responsible for the administration of the federal labor-management relations program with information needed, in the performance of their authorized duties under a Bureau-union contract or E.O. 11491, as amended; to disclose to Members of Congress who inquire on behalf of constituents; to disclose to next-of-kin, voluntary guardian and other representative or successor in interest of a deceased or incapacitated employee or former employee.

Routine users outside the Department are other Federal Agency Personnel Offices; the Civil Service Commission; U.S. Department of Labor, Office of Employees Compensation; State unemployment offices; union representatives, arbitrators, and other third-parties who have responsibilities and a Bureau-union contract or E.O. 11491, as amended, for the administration of the federal labor-management relations program as qualified in the routine use; creditors; Federal agencies; Members of Congress and next-of-kin; voluntary guardian and other representative or successor in interest.

For Additional Routine Uses, see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Electronic media, paper and microfilm.

Retrievability: By name, and in some cases social security number.

Safeguards: Information is contained in secure buildings, Federal Records Centers, or in areas which are occupied by officers and responsible employees of the Bureau who are subject to the Bureau's personnel screening procedures and the Treasury Department Code of Conduct. Information stored in electronic media is safeguarded by automatic data processing security procedures in addition to physical security measures.

Retention and disposal: Records are maintained in accordance with GSA and CSC retention schedules. All records are destroyed by incineration, maceration or shredding. Records in electronic media are electronically erased using accepted techniques.

System manager(s) and address: For Administrative records: Commissioner of the Public Debt, 15th and New York Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20226. For Personnel records: Director of Personnel, Bureau of the Public Debt, 13th and C Streets, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20226.

Notification procedure: Address Administrative inquiries and initial requests for correction of records to: Privacy Act Request, Commissioner of the Public Debt, 15th and New York Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20226, (202) 376-0249. Address Personnel inquiries and initial requests for correction of records to: Privacy Act Request, Director of Personnel, Bureau of the Public Debt, 13th and C Streets, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20226, (202) 447-1297; or Privacy Act Request, Personnel Officer, Savings Bond Operations Office, Bureau of the Public Debt, 200 Third Street, Parkersburg, West Virginia 26101, (304) 422-8551.

Record access procedures: Individuals who wish to request access to records relating to them or who wish to request correction of records they believe to be in error should submit such requests pursuant to the procedures set out below in compliance with the applicable regulations (31 CFR Part 1, Subpart C Sections 1.7 & 1.8; 31 CFR Part 323). Requests which do not comply fully with these procedures may result in noncompliance with the request but will be answered to the extent possible.

Requests for access to records: (1) All requests for access to records should be in writing, signed by the individual concerned, and, in order for the Privacy Act procedures to apply, clearly indicate that the request is made pursuant to the Privacy Act of 1974. The Bureau reserves the right to require additional verification of an individual's identity in certain cases. (2) The request must specify the Bureau system of records within which the desired records are located as well as the categories of records within the system. These categories are set out in the applicable system of records description. (3) Requests for records concerning a deceased or incapacitated individual should be accompanied by either evidence of the requester's appointment as legal representative of the individual or his estate or by a statement attesting that no such representative has been appointed and giving the nature of the relationship between the requester and the individual.

Requests for correction of records: (1) All requests by an individual for correction of records relating to him should be in writing, be signed by him, and, in order for the Privacy Act procedures to apply, state that the request is made pursuant to the Privacy Act of 1974. (2) The request for correction should specify: (a) the dates of the prior correspondence had with the Bureau concerning the records in question, (b) the specific records alleged to be incorrect, (c) the correction requested, and (d) the reasons therefor as well as any available evidence in support of the request.

Appeals from an initial denial of a request for correction of records: (1) All appeals from an initial denial of a request for correction of records must be in writing, be signed by the individual involved, and, in order for the Privacy Act procedures to apply, state that it is made pursuant to the Privacy Act of 1974. (2) All appeals must, to be handled under the Privacy Act procedures, be delivered to the address set forth for submission of appeals within 35 days of the individual's receipt of the initial denial of the requested correction. (3) All appeals must specify: (a) the records to which the appeal relates, (b) the date of the initial request made for correction of the records, and (c) the date that initial denial of the request for correction was received. (4) All appeals must also specify the reasons for the requester's disagreement with the initial denial of correction and should furnish any applicable evidence available in support of his appeal.

Contesting record procedures: See notification and access.

Record source categories: Information on records in the system is furnished by the individuals, by creditors, by supervisors, medical personnel, other employees, or as the result of security investigations.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Present and former owners or first-named coowners of, claimants to, persons entitled to, and inquirers concerning United States savings-type securities and interest thereon—including but not limited to United States Savings Bonds, Savings Notes, Retirement Plan Bonds, and Individual Retirement Bonds. In addition, second-named coowners of Series G savings bonds.

Categories of records in the system: (1) Issuance: Records relating to registration, registers of issuance of securities and records of correspondence in connection with issuance of savings-type securities. (2) Holdings: Records documenting ownership, status, payments by date and account numbers, including inscription information; interest activity; correspondence in connection with notice of change of name and address, non-receipt of interest and over- and under-payments of interest; numerical registers of ownership. Such records include information relating to savings-type securities held in safekeeping in conjunction with the Department's program to deliver such securities to the owners or persons entitled. (3) Transactions (redemptions, payments and reissues): Records which include securities transaction requests; interest activity; legal papers supporting transactions, applications for disposition or payment of securities and/or interest thereon of deceased or incapacitated owners; records of retired securities; check payment records. (4) Claims: Records including correspondence concerning lost, stolen, destroyed or mutilated savings-type securities, bonds of indemnity, legal documents supporting claims for relief and records of caveats entered. (5) Inquiries: Records of correspondence with individuals who have requested information concerning savings-type securities and/or interest thereon.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Second Liberty Bond Act, as amended (40 Stat. 288) and 5 U.S.C. 301.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Within the Department of the Treasury, the information contained in this system of records is routinely used in connection with the issuance of securities, the payment of interest thereon, processing of claims therefor, responding to inquiries thereon, processing of transactions therein and the redemption and retirement thereof. Users for these purposes are officials, authorized employees and agents of the Department for the purpose of administering the Public Debt of the United States. Information in this system is also routinely furnished to the Internal Revenue Service for use by officials and authorized employees for the purpose of facilitating collection of tax revenues by the United States. In addition to these uses within the Department, records concerning holdings are routinely disclosed outside the Department as follows: (1) To the next-of-kin, voluntary guardian, legal representative or successor in interest of a deceased or incapacitated owner of securities, and others entitled in connection with reissue, distribution or payment thereof; users for this purpose are as described for the purpose of assuring equitable and lawful disposition of securities and/or interest. (2) Information is routinely furnished, when appropriate, pertaining to securities to the United States Secret Service for inclusion in the National Crime Information Center of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, to the Department of Justice and to other Federal agencies; users for this purpose are law enforcement officials, for the purpose of reducing monetary losses of the United States and to aid in law enforcement. (3) Information is routinely disclosed pertaining to holdings of securities, interest thereon and transactions therein to the Department of Justice in connection with lawsuits to which the Department is a party; and to Trustees in Bankruptcy; users are Federal officials for the purpose of carrying out their duties. (4) Information is routinely disclosed to the Veterans Administration and selected veterans publications in connection with attempts to locate owners, or their next of kin or persons otherwise entitled to bonds undeliverable and being held in safekeeping by the Department. (5) Information regarding records of holdings of securities registered in coownership form is routinely disclosed to either coowner upon request. Information regarding records of holdings for securities registered in beneficiary form ("P.O.D.") is routinely disclosed to the beneficiary named thereon provided acceptable proof of death of the registered owner is submitted. (Note: If the request for disclosure is made by the second-named coowner, or by a beneficiary the name or social security number of the first-named person must be furnished, except in the case of Series G savings bonds.) (6) Information regarding holdings is routinely disclosed to Members of Congress who inquire on behalf of constituents. (7) For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Records in this system are stored in their original form in file cabinets, as information in electronic media or on microfilm.

Retrievability: Information can be retrieved alphabetically by name, bond serial numbers, or, in some cases, numerically by social security number. In the case of securities, except Series G savings bonds, registered in more than one name, information relating thereto can only be retrieved by the name or in some cases social security number of the first-named coowner.

Safeguards: Information is contained in secure buildings, Federal Records Centers, or in areas which are occupied by officers and responsible employees of either the Department who are subject to personnel screening procedures and the Treasury Department Code of Conduct, or by agents of the Department who are required by the Department to maintain proper control over records while in their custody. Additionally, since in most cases, numerous steps are involved in the retrieval process, unauthorized persons would be unable to retrieve information in a meaningful form. Information stored in electronic media is safeguarded by automatic data processing security procedures in addition to physical security measures.

Retention and disposal: Records of holdings are maintained permanently. Forms, documents and other legal papers which constitute the basis for transactions subsequent to original issue are maintained for such time as is necessary to protect the legal rights and interest of the U.S. Government and the persons affected, or otherwise until they are no longer historically significant. Other records are disposed of at varying intervals in accordance with records retention schedules reviewed and approved by the National Archives and Records Service, General Services Administration. All records are destroyed by shredding, incineration or maceration. Records in electronic media are electronically erased using accepted techniques.

System manager(s) and address: Commissioner of the Public Debt, 15th St. and New York Ave., N.W. Washington, D.C. 20226.

Notification procedure: Address inquiries to: Privacy Act Request, Assistant Commissioner of the Public Debt, Savings Bond Operations Office, 200 Third Street, Parkersburg, West Virginia 26101, (304) 422-8551. Inquiries should include the full name, social security number, address and security serial number(s), if known.

Record access procedures: Individuals who wish to request access to records relating to them or who wish to request correction of records they believe to be in error should submit such requests pursuant to the procedures set out below in compliance with the applicable regulations (31 CFR Part 1, Subpart C Sections 1.7 & 1.8; 31 CFR Part 323). Requests which do not comply fully with these procedures may result in noncompliance with the request but will be answered to the extent possible.

Requests for access to records: (1) All requests for access to records must be in writing, signed by the individual concerned, and, in order for the Privacy Act procedures to apply, clearly indicate that the request is made pursuant to the Privacy Act of 1974. The Bureau reserves the right to require additional verification of an individual's identity. (2) The request must specify the Bureau system of records within which the desired records are located as well as the categories of records within the system. These categories are set out in the applicable system of records description. (3) In the case of requests for information concerning holdings of securities, the type of security involved (e.g., Series E savings bond, Series H savings note, retirement plan bond, etc.) must be specified. Additionally, the request should, to the extent possible, specify the approximate date of issue, serial number(s) and exact form of registration, including social security number and address. Requests which do not furnish all or some of the above information will be complied with to the extent possible but may be subject to the requirement that additional identificatory evidence be furnished. (4) Requests for information concerning records of holdings of securities except Series G savings bonds registered in coownership form must be accompanied by the name and, wherever possible, social security number of the first-named coowner. Requests for information concerning securities registered in beneficiary form must also be accompanied by the name and social security number of the owner thereof and, if made by the beneficiary, must be accompanied by proof of death of the registered owner. (5) Requests for records of holdings or other information concerning a deceased or incapacitated individual should be accompanied by either evidence of the requester's appointment as legal representative of the individual or his estate or by a statement attesting that no such representative has been appointed and giving the nature of the relationship between the requester and the individual.

Requests for correction of records: (1) All requests by an individual for correction of records relating to him should be in writing, be signed by him, and, in order for the Privacy Act procedures to apply, state that the request is made pursuant to the Privacy Act of 1974. (2) The request for correction should specify: (a) the dates of the prior correspondence had with the Bureau concerning the records in question, (b) the specific records alleged to be incorrect, (c) the correction requested, and (d) the reasons therefor, as well as any available evidence in support of the request.

Appeals from an initial denial of a request for correction of records: (1) All appeals from an initial denial of a request for correction of records must be in writing, be signed by the individual involved and, in order for the Privacy Act procedures to apply, state that it is made pursuant to the Privacy Act of 1974. (2) All appeals must, to be handled under the Privacy Act procedures, be delivered to the address set forth for submission of appeals within 35 days of the individual's receipt of the initial denial of the requested correction. (3) All appeals must specify: (a) the records to which the appeal relates, (b) the date of the initial request made for correction of the records, and (c) the date that initial denial of the request for correction was received. (4) All appeals must also specify the reasons for the requestor's disagreement with the initial denial of correction and should furnish any applicable evidence available in support of his appeal.

Contesting record procedures: See notification and access.

In addition to these uses within the Department, records concerning holdings are routinely disclosed outside the Department as follows: (1) To the next-of-kin, voluntary guardian, legal representative or successor in interest of a deceased or incapacitated owner of securities and others entitled in connection with transfer, exchange, distribution or payment thereof; users for this purpose are as described for the purpose of assuring equitable and lawful disposition of securities and/or interest. (2) Information is routinely furnished pertaining to securities reported as lost or stolen to the United States Secret Service for inclusion in the National Crime Information Center of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Department of Justice and to other Federal agencies; users for this purpose are law enforcement officials, for the purpose of reducing monetary losses of the United States and to aid in law enforcement. (3) Information is routinely disclosed pertaining to holdings of securities and transactions therein to the Department of Justice in connection with lawsuits to which the Bureau is a party; users are law enforcement officials for the purpose of administration of justice. (4) Information concerning holdings of Armed Forces Leave Bonds is routinely furnished to the Veterans Administration in connection with redemption or disposition of these securities. Users of the resultant information furnished by the Veterans Administration are officers and authorized employees of the Bureau, for the purpose of making proper disposition of these bonds. (5) Information regarding records of holdings of securities registered in the names of two or more owners is routinely disclosed to either owner upon his request. (Note: requests for disclosure by owners other than the first-named owner should include the name or social security number of the first-named owner.) (6) Information regarding holdings is routinely disclosed to Members of Congress who inquire on behalf of constituents. (7) For additional routine uses see Appendix AA.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Records in this system are stored in their original paper form and as information in electronic media and on microfilm.

Retrievability: Information can be retrieved alphabetically by name or, in some cases, numerically by social security number. In the case of securities registered in more than one name, which matured prior to January 1, 1973, information relating thereto can only be retrieved by the name or social security number of the first-named owner.

Safeguards: Information is contained in secure buildings, Federal Records Centers, or in areas which are occupied by officers and responsible employees of either the Department who are subject to personnel screening procedures and the Treasury Department Code of Conduct, or by Federal Reserve Banks and Branches as Fiscal Agents. Additionally, since in most cases, numerous steps are involved in the retrieval process, unauthorized persons would be unable to retrieve information in a meaningful form. Information stored in electronic media is safeguarded by automatic data processing security procedures in addition to physical security measures.

Retention and disposal: Records of holdings are maintained permanently. Forms, documents and other legal papers which constitute the basis for transactions subsequent to original issue are maintained for such time as is necessary to protect the legal rights and interests of the U.S. Government and the persons affected or otherwise until they are no longer historically significant. Other records are disposed of at varying intervals in accordance with records retention schedules reviewed and approved by the National Archives and Records Service, General Services Administration. All records are destroyed by shredding, incineration or maceration. Records in electronic media are electronically erased using accepted techniques.

System manager(s) and address: Commissioner of the Public Debt, 15th St. and New York Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20226.

Notification procedure: Address inquiries and initial requests for correction of records to: Privacy Act Request, Assistant Commissioner of the Public Debt, 13th and C Streets, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20226, (202) 964-7994. Inquiries should include the full name and social security number of the inquirer.

Record access procedures: Individuals who wish to request access to records relating to them or who wish to request correction of records they believe to be in error should submit such requests pursuant to the procedures set out below in compliance with the applicable regulations (31 CFR Part 1, Subpart C Sections 1.7 and 1.8; 31 CFR Part 323). Requests which do not comply fully with these procedures may result in noncompliance with the request but will be answered to the extent possible.

Requests and access to records: (1) All requests for access to records must be in writing, signed by the individual concerned, and, in order for the Privacy Act procedures to apply, clearly indicate that the request is made pursuant to the Privacy Act of 1974. The Bureau reserves the right to require additional verification of an individual's identity. (2) The request must specify the Bureau system of records within which the desired records are located as well as the categories of records within the system. These categories are set out in the applicable system of records description. (3) In the case of requests for information concerning records of holdings of securities, the type of security involved (e.g., Treasury Note, Armed Forces Leave Bond, Adjusted Service Bond, etc.) must be specified. Additionally, the request should, to the extent possible, specify: the loan and issue thereof, approximate date of issue, denomination, serial number and form of registration, including address. Requests which do not furnish some or all of the latter information will be complied with to the extent possible but may be subject to the requirement that additional identificatory evidence be furnished. (4) Requests for records of holdings of securities which matured prior to January 1, 1973 registered in the name of more than one person must include the name and, wherever possible, social security number of the first-named owner. (5) Requests for records of holdings or other information concerning a deceased or incapacitated individual must be accompanied by either evidence of the requester's appointment as legal representative of the individual or his estate or by a statement attesting that no such representative has been appointed and giving the nature of the relationship between the requester and the individual.

Requests for correction of Records: (1) All requests by an individual for correction of records relating to him should be in writing, be signed by him, and, in order for the Privacy Act procedures to apply, state that the request is made pursuant to the Privacy Act of 1974. (2) The request for correction should specify: (a) the dates of the prior correspondence had with the Bureau concerning the records in question, (b) the specific records alleged to be incorrect, (c) the correction requested, and (d) the reasons therefor as well as any available evidence in support of the request.

Appeals from an initial denial of a request for correction of records: (1) All appeals from an initial denial of a request for correction of records must be in writing, be signed by the individual involved and, in order for the Privacy Act procedures to apply, state that it is made pursuant to the Privacy Act of 1974. (2) All appeals must, to be handled under the Privacy Act procedures, be delivered to the address set forth for submission of appeals within 35 days of the individual's receipt of the initial denial of the requested correction. (3) All appeals must specify: (a) the record to which the appeal relates, (b) the date of the initial request made for correction of the records, and (c) the date that initial denial of the request for correction was received. (4) All appeals must also specify the reasons for the requestor's disagreement with the initial denial of correction and should furnish any applicable evidence available in support of his appeal.
